What is a health coach?

A health coach is a trained professional who helps you make changes that support your health. Through regular check-ins, your health coach talks to you about the changes you'd like to make and what's getting in the way of your reaching your goals. They are a partner in your behavior change process. This process involves supporting you as you set goals, identify values & strengths, and access intrinsic motivations to encourage sustainable healthy behaviors and to reach your full potential.

Join Karen Peterson, Certified Health Coach, in the downstairs yoga studio for these great discussions!
